

AJC LONG ISLAND'S Leaders for Tomorrow

AJC Long Island's Leaders for Tomorrow (LFT) enables young Jewish leaders to develop skills to advocate on behalf of the Jewish people and Israel, and to serve as positive change agents for their peers and community. Graduates of LFT make a difference in their communities and prepare to enter college with the knowledge and confidence to engage in dialogue regarding antisemitism and Israel. LFT participants will learn about past and current Israeli affairs, challenges and opportunities facing global Jewry, and how to utilize strategic networks in advocacy.

REGISTRATION IS ON A ROLLING ADMISSIONS BASIS UNTIL THE COHORT IS FILLED.

High school students who will be sophomores, juniors, and seniors during the 2024-2025 academic calendar are eligible to apply. Preference will be given to juniors and seniors. There is no cost to participate.

Students can apply at AJC.org/lft

LFT consists of 8 high-level, engaging, and participatory training sessions once a month, in-person, on Sundays from 5:00-8:00 p.m. at the Sid Jacobson JCC in Greenvale. A kosher dinner is served at each session. There is also an advocacy mission to DC in the spring.

LFT Long Island is made possible in part through the generous support of the Iranian American Jewish Federation of New York.

QUESTIONS?

Contact
AJC Long Island Senior Associate
Daniel Small
smalld@ajc.org
(212) 891-1386

AJC American Jewish Committee